

All's Not Well With Mails

By FRANK LAPIERRE

The credo of the United States Postal Service since its inception has been to insure promptness in delivery of the mails regardless of the elements.

Children learn almost before they can walk that "neither rain, not sleet, nor snow, nor gloom of night" prevents the devoted mailman from making his appointed rounds.

If it were still a battle between mailmen and Mother Nature there is little doubt in the minds of most carriers of the U.S. Postal Service would win out.

But now machinery — automation — is doing what Mother Nature could never do — tying up the mails and actually preventing its prompt delivery.

Budget cuts, coupled with the introduction of new-fangled cancelling machines, have thrown the postal service into a mess it is not likely to recover from for many years.

In cities throughout the country the number of clerks and other postal help is being cut back drastically. Other delays are being caused by new pickup and distribution routings and methods.

In some cases, a letter is routed hundreds of miles through a centralized cancellation point in order to deliver it to a person in the next town a few miles away.

Daly City is a "typical" example, according to veteran mailmen working in that city of 70,000.

Postmaster Vince Murphy has been ordered by higher-ups in the department to cut back his overhead.

Recently three members of Postmaster Murphy's department — all substitute clerks — were declared surplus by the "higher-ups" and their work hours were cut back.

According to Lawrence D. Murray, president of the American Postal Workers Union, AFL-CIO, contract agreements between the Post Office and union employees prevents their being fired outright. Instead they are allowed to work two hours during a pay period.

A "pay period" is each two weeks, it was explained.

One of the victims of this budgetary cutback in Daly City is substitute clerk Robert G. Ortt.

In October, Ortt, after receiving a two-week paycheck from the Post Office for $3.38, turned it back to Postmaster Murphy asking it be applied to "a training fund to improve management effectiveness and responsibility to the human needs of employees."

During such lean times, however, post office workers are allowed to collect unemployment.

But the affected workers are angry because while they are held to a bare minimum others within the postal system — including other substitutes and regular carriers and clerks — are being worked overtime.

Murray also claims there have been circumstances reported at Bay Area post offices where supervisory personnel have filled in when the mail starts building up inside postal stations.

"Imagine, if you can, a supervisor being paid $15,000 or more per year casing (sorting) mail when they can get someone for far less," Murray said.

In all fairness to Postmaster Murphy, his hands are tied. Orders come from Murphy's bosses in the department.

Murphy's occasional entanglements with some postal union representatives have come about because of his use of supervisory personnel in an effort to keep the mails moving on schedule, persons who asked not to be identified said.

What is happening within Murphy's department is said to be happening throughout the country.

"Whatever is happening and whoever is responsible for the present situation must realize by now that their efforts to make themselves look good in the budget department is making the Postal Service look bad in the eyes of the general public — the people we are supposed to be serving," Daly City postal worker said.

"If (the new postal system) just isn't working like it should," Murray said.

Why?

"We're dealing with new world concepts — sophisticated machinery and new methods but we are still saddled with old type thinking and rules," Murray answers.

The age-old "paternalistic system" which allows certain old-timers within the system to sit on their derrieres and get away with it, because firing such workers is out of the civil service system, is still evidenced, some claim.

Such performance and thinking must be changed with the machinery.

The streamlining of systems and machinery that began at the top almost four years ago apparently hasn't reached down to the rank and file yet.

Hopefully it will before the Christmas rush starts.

PILEUP AT POST OFFICE—All too frequently these days mail piles up at post offices in the Bay Area, delaying deliveries and causing excessive overtime work. Postal union representatives claim. In the face of this, top brass within the Postal Department continue to cut back funds for hiring new personnel and have lowered working hours for some substitute employees.

Nick Gust Resigns Pacifica Councilman, Restaurateur

Nick Gust, well-known Coast-side restaurateur who has spent 6 1/2 tumultuous years on the Pacifica City Council, early on Tuesday handed in his resignation.

He acted at the tailend of a controversy wracked meeting which began last night and dragged on past midnight.

He cited only his increasing difficulty in doing justice to the two roles he was serving in. Now owner of three leading Pacifica restaurants, he has recently started construction of a 92-room hotel.

Although his fellow councilmen had told beforehand that he would be resigning, his announcement appeared to come as a complete surprise to virtually everyone else in Pacifica.

Gust, whose parents bought their first property in Pacifica's Rockaway Beach district to start a refreshment stand back in 1927, had been active in civic affairs and youth activities since Pacifica began its explosive growth almost 20 years ago. He served as mayor of Pacifica for three consecutive years, and has been closely identified with the city's name.

He admitted that it had been a difficult decision for him to make. "There is no appropriate time to step down," he said in his announcement.

Over the past few months, he revealed, he had planned to retire several times, but had delayed it for one reason after another — the latest for the purpose of helping to select a new city manager.

In his hours of service, he declared, everyone had always known where he stood. The council had never agreed upon their votes in back rooms or in somebody's home, he asserted.

He paraphrased President Nixon's 1962 post-election statement, "You won't have Nick Gust to kick around anymore" and Winston Churchill's "It's not goodbye — but only farewell."

He threw many barbs at Pacifica's well-practiced corps of council critics.

"Many feel that a businessman who serves as councilman is under suspicion . . . but my conscience is clear."

He added that, "I regret that my council colleagues have had to share barbs aimed at me."

He concluded, "I have never run from a good fight . . . and I am not running now."

His fellow councilmen all paid him tribute.

Mayor Grace McCarthy expressed regret that "time pressures don't permit you to continue . . . you have devoted tremendous time as a mayor and councilman."

Councilman Stan Farber commented that "I really don't think people realize the tortures of hell you go through for their city — you leave meetings, go home, and can't get to sleep . . . hoping that you have made the right decisions — with all the pressure groups telling you that you haven't. It's going to be tough to find someone to replace Nick."

Even Harland A. Minshew, who commented that "it's no secret that Nick and I haven't always agreed," added, "We have always respected each other's opinion. When he told me he would resign, I told him no. I'm going to miss you . . . but I know I'll see a lot of you in the audience."

After the meeting drew to its early morning close, the councilmen had another meeting, an executive session over which course to take now, with a vacancy on the council.

No Industry For Millbrae Home Area

Millbrae's two east-of-the-railroad subdivisions will remain residential areas for at least 20 years, the city's planning commission was told last night, and "everything should be done to preserve their integrity."

After 10 or 15 years of expecting Marina Vista and Bayshore Manor subdivisions to be phased out, into airport-oriented industrial uses, this was almost a revolutionary idea for city planners.

Sidney Williams and Robert P. Ironside of the planning firm of Williams & Moene, made the unexpected statement during a first report on their efforts to create a new master plan for Millbrae development.

They said the future of the two subdivisions which lie east of Southern Pacific's railroad tracks, and west of Bayshore Freeway and the airport, depends upon Rollins Road.

If Rollins Road is extended northward from Millbrae Avenue to the airport properties, the two subdivisions would be squeezed out with a crush of industrial developments, Williams said.

If Rollins Road is not extended, and neither Williams nor Ironside expects it to be lengthened within 20 years, then the two subdivisions are worth saving.

The hired planners said a park should be developed for the region, the Aviator entrance road should be closed off, and a new entrance created by extending Rollins Road for a single block northward.

They also suggested several minor changes for the downtown area, with a theme of "stabilizing and improving the status quo," according to Williams.

The bid opening date for the $16 million project already has been set back from November 1 to tomorrow, Gregorio said.

He said his resolution wouldn't have any effect on the resolution, which would force a calling for new bids on a scaled-down project.

"I understand my resolution would cause no appreciable delay," Gregorio said.

He said his resolution was similar to one he introduced last year, based on an Association of Bay Area Governments study showing the bypass should be rerouted and cut to two lanes to prevent opening up of the area to large population growth.

North Peninsula Program Athletics for Handicapped

For two hours each week a group of youngsters meet at the Westmoor High School in Daly City and practice such diversified events as basketball, tumbling and archery.

Not very unusual?

Well, this program is one of the most ambitious projects ever undertaken in Daly City. It is sort of "prep school" for the North County's handicapped children.

Funded by federal monies and supervised by the Daly City Recreation Department, the six-week-long program accepts children — physically handicapped and mentally retarded — from South San Francisco, San Bruno, Brisbane, Pacifica and Daly City.

Those children 12 years and older are taught to mix with other children. It makes no difference to the 25 volunteer instructors whether a child is retarded or physically handicapped or not.

What the instructors are trying to do is teach them to become more aggressive, more outgoing in their conduct with others.

A pilot program last year in the district started with 14 handicapped children and ended with 24. Sponsors called the program "encouraging" and applied for a federal grant. It was approved this year.

Already, this year's program has 25 youths enrolled and participants bring in more each week.

Peter Cassidy, of the Daly City Recreation Department, which is responsible for overseeing the program, said the course is capable of handling more children and urged parents to check on the program with Katherine Bradshaw at the Recreation Department offices for information.

Of all the people connected with this program, only Cassidy, an employee of the city, is paid. Mrs. Bernadette Price and Mrs. Greta Sorenson, parents of retarded children, credit Gary Jacini, an instructor at Skidmore College, with making the success that it is.

Jacini is a six-year veteran of Skidmore's Adaptive Recreation program. This program is designed for handicapped persons.

"This (program) would not have worked if it wasn't for the efforts of Gary," Mrs. Price explained. "He's absolutely wonderful with the children."

Aided by such devoted help as Jim Fusaro, a student at the college, the work has already shown marked achievements in the characters of the children. They take more active roles in the games.

"When we first started three weeks ago the kids just kind of kept to themselves," Jacini said. "You can actually see them become more outgoing each week."

Mrs. Price doesn't want credit for anything connected with the program. But others involved claim it was her and Mrs. Sorenson's efforts that were mainly responsible for getting the program started.

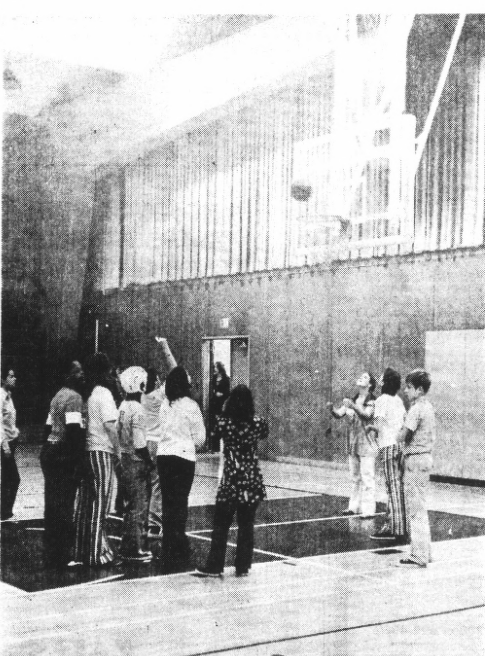

"That's not entirely true," Mrs. Price responded. "However, we did feel these children needed something other than going to school each day and coming home each night. That's why we approached the Daly City Recreation Department."

There is more to the program than just "local" competition, sponsors point out.

In April there is the olympic games for the handicapped. This event has attracted the attention of similar groups around the nation.

First, San Mateo County youth meet at Mills High School. From this meet participants go on to the state trials and the winners next attend the international meet in April.

"This is a program where everyone is a winner — the children, the volunteers and the community. It makes for a stronger character in the children and develops productive citizens in the community," Cassidy explained.

By AL QUALE

What the world needs now is more Frisbees, according to Bill Schneider, America's happy ambassador of the plastic disc who is promoting the sport on an international level.

Schneider, a 23-year-old Sacramento State University student who recently returned from a European Frisbee promoting tour, demonstrated his beloved sport for students gathered in the Carlmont High School gym Friday.

"Frisbee knows no language, social or economic boundaries," he said, demonstrating releasing another plastic disc. The Frisbee flew to the center of the gym, bounced smartly off the floor and made a spinning upward arc, until landing squarely in the hands of a receiver on the other side of the gym.

Schneider's Frisbee promoting tactics have even smashed the iron curtain. He smuggled several Frisbees into Communist Czechoslovakia where the plastic objects were labeled as just another part of "capitalist decadence."

Once Schneider distributed the smuggled Frisbees to interested Czechoslovaks, however, "they just freaked out," he reports.

"They even tried to throw plates," he added.

Frisbeemania followed Schneider all over Europe and he sold more than one million of the plastic discs for the German firm Spol Sport Freizeit — which bought the European distribution rights for Frisbees from the Wham-O Company.

But there is much more to life than being a successful Frisbee salesman, Schneider adds. He hopes his international Frisbee promotions will help convince the world that Frisbee throwing becomes part of the Olympic competition in 1976.

He sincerely feels the Frisbee can help bridge the communication gaps between the world's communities. "Frisbee throwing" is as good a form of exercise as playing tennis or basketball.

Schneider also notes that "active Frisbee throwing" is as good a form of exercise as playing tennis or basketball.

Conceding that Frisbee throwing is a modern rendition of the discus, Schneider was able to organize a Frisbee physical education course at Sacramento State. Schneider teaches the one-credit course, the only such class in the nation.

Schneider's future plans include another trip to Europe next summer to once again promote the Frisbee.

But what about the future of the Frisbee will the disc ever die out?

"Never," Schneider says determinedly. "It's accepted as a sport all over the world."

Airline Sued Over Drunk Passenger

A Portola Valley woman charges in a Superior Court suit that she was injured when a drunk aboard an airliner grabbed her from her seat.

Mrs. Betty H. Lewis, wife of a Palo Alto attorney, is asking a half-million dollars from Pacific Southwest Airlines, contending in the complaint that the airline allowed a male passenger in an "obviously intoxicated condition" to board a flight from San Diego to San Jose last October 7, and allowed him to remain aboard the plane.

The suit, filed in San Mateo County Superior Court by Mrs. Lewis' husband, Robert J. Lewis, states that the drunk attempted to engage Mrs. Lewis in conversation, then grabbed her and attempted to pull her to her feet while her seat belt was still fastened.

A stewardess and Lewis had to forcibly subdue the drunk, the complaint states.

As a result of being grabbed, an old back injury was aggravated and Mrs. Lewis has been required to wear a brace. It is stated in the suit Mrs. Lewis has been prevented from doing household chores and has had to hire housekeeping help at a cost of $400 a month, the complaint says.

Mrs. Lewis is asking $400,000 in general damages and $100,000 in punitive damages from the airline.

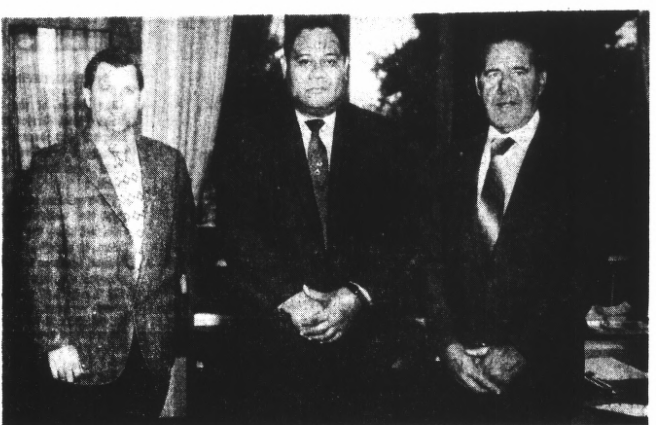

Jeanne Macauley

S.S.F. Pupil Wins Honors

Jeanne Macauley of South San Francisco High School has been named one of the outstanding high school students of English in the country. The National Council of Teachers of English has named her a 1972 winner in its annual Achievement Awards competition.

Last spring, the English department of the high school nominated Ms. Macauley to represent South San Francisco High School in the competition. The school was allotted one entry from the junior class for every 500 students in its total school enrollment, according to Frank Derfield, the English department chairman.

This is the second time in the last three years that South San Francisco High School has won this award.

Bruno Council Okays Controversial Project

The controversial Crystal Springs Terrace apartment project in San Bruno will apparently move on to completion — on a note of controversy.

The city council Monday night split the vote 3-2 in approving an earlier planning commission recommendation, which included 16 conditions, to revise the planned development zoning of the project.

Councilmen Neil Christal and John Barnard voted against the motion. Christal had earlier indicated he preferred the original plan. He said the new proposal "curtailed open space."

City Planner Jack Muirhead, however, pointed out that the original plan called for 40 per cent lot coverage and the new proposal was for 36.39 per cent lot coverage.

"We approved a plan two years ago, and now we're getting additional structures and a fire road. Roadways are not considered open space. That's why I'm making such a point of it," said Christal.

Attorney Brennan Newsom, representing the new developer, Samson Inc., pointed out that his client actually lost 22 units because three buildings which had been three-story units were reduced to two-story units.

He said the building Christal referred to as "added" was placed by the original developer and was earmarked as covered parking. "It is 30 per cent complete, and it was 20 per cent complete when we came on the job," said Newsom.

The attorney said that if he were required to follow the original plan his client would be forced to rip out trees along the northeast end of the project.

"We're well aware we have a lot of blacktop," he said, adding that by December 18 his client would provide a "detailed" landscaping plan that would somehow rectify that situation.

Newsom said the original plan showed "trees growing through parking stalls," and criticized the original plan as not being to scale.

and casting aspersions on the original plan," said Harris. He said that the original land-showed 60 per cent landscaping.

Two DC Policemen Hurt in Scuffle

Daly City policeman Mike Scott and fellow officer Dick Phillips were treated for injuries received in a scuffle with an alleged traffic violator Tuesday morning.

Scott was off-duty and was waiting for the traffic signal to change at the corner of Mission and Market streets after casting his ballot in the elections when he spotted Clifford Carter, 27, of Brisbane allegedly committing what police call "an exhibition of speed."

Carter stopped nearby and was standing in front of a local bank when Scott, in plain clothes, approached the man, identified himself as a policeman and asked for identification.

According to Scott, Carter refused to show his driver's license and instead became argumentative. Scott flagged down patrolman Phillips and the two officers again approached Carter, described as 6-foot, 2-inches and weighing 185 pounds.

An altercation started when the officers insisted Carter produce his driver's license.

Bookmaking Raid in SSF

A 44-year-old Milbrae man is free on $5000 bail after his arrest in South San Francisco on a charge of bookmaking.

Officers of the San Mateo County Organized Crime Unit and the South San Francisco Police Department raided an apartment at 565 Baden Avenue and arrested James Daniel Quinn, 120 Lewis Avenue, Milbrae. South San Francisco officers said Quinn tried to destroy betting slips as they broke in, but they stopped him.

Following the arrest, officers stationed themselves at the telephone and continued "accepting" bets that came over. Police alleged that Quinn was doing a business of more than $500 a day.

Skyline Faculty Stand Debated

Are teachers at Skyline College, San Bruno, meeting their contractual obligations or not?

Having voted last month not to take part in any out-of-classroom meetings or other gatherings deemed to be extracurricular in nature, the professors have, in effect, instituted a moratorium on certain of their normal duties.

The question of the legality of such a move was put to a variety of sources within the San Mateo Junior College District last night after a meeting of that Board of Trustees. The answers varied.

The president of the board,

Mrs. Eleanor Nettle, said she hasn't explored the issue fully and couldn't make a statement on it.

She said the board has delegated the responsibility for handling the situation to Skyline President Dr. John Petersen. Mrs. Nettle explained that, until it can be shown that the regular functions of the college are being interfered with, the matter will remain in Petersen's hands.

For his part, Petersen said he believed that what the teachers are doing is not illegal.

In fact, he pointed out, one of the main issues in the dispute at the school—that of the number of meetings which teachers must attend—has already been looked into and a solution should be forthcoming within two weeks.

Petersen offered that there is no indication that the contractual obligations of the professors are not being carried out.

Ardas Ozogomonyan, the president of the Skyline Faculty Senate, said he didn't think the teachers were breaking their contracts either.

He also felt that the situation at the North County campus could be worked out within two weeks.

Asked whether a district attorney's ruling in the matter had been obtained, Petersen said one had not been.

Bristling, Ozogomonyan remarked that, "The district attorney should mind his own business."

During the regular public portion of the meeting, Petersen told the board that the business of the college is proceeding as usual with no noticeable disruption in education.

Speaking on another related topic, Ozogomonyan declared that the Skyline faculty has refused to participate with the faculties of the other two colleges in preparing guidelines and working papers for implementation of the Stull Bill, a state mandate which orders school districts to create evaluation procedures for faculty and staff.

SSF Approves Remodeling Plan for Its City Hall

A $3240 plan for remodeling South San Francisco City Hall was approved at last week's City Council meeting — and at least one department head is unhappy with it.

Under questioning by Councilman Patrick Ahern, City Manager Gale F. Dreisbach admitted that City Planner Daniel Pass was totally opposed to his being moved from his offices just off of the main lobby to the basement.

"He claims his autonomy is at stake," Dreisbach explained. "This is not at all true," he continued. "Location has nothing to do with autonomy."

Fred Hull, director of the Department of Ecological Development, explained that the purpose of the remodeling would be to create better working conditions. The planner would have his own office, for the first time, and will share space at the drafting section and a newly created secretarial pool.

Much of the work would be done by street department workers during rainy days, it was noted.

A much-needed conference room would be created in the basement. The finance officer would, for the first time, receive his own office, near the city clerk.

Hull noted that the present arrangement of the basement "precludes us from answering each other's phones when some of us are away for lunch."

The planner's office, he explained, was being put in the basement so that offices with similar functions would be grouped together. The building and engineering departments would also be located there.

Councilman Patrick Ahern questioned the need to spend $3240 for the project.

"It's a small price to pay for efficiency," Councilman Gordon Boblitt retorted.

The councilman approved the remodeling with one "no" vote — Councilman William Borba.

P-TA Leaders Tell Bruno Park Needs

Concerns about San Bruno park and recreation facilities, or lack of them, were expressed to the City Park and Recreation Commission Wednesday by P-TA leaders. These points were made:

- An indoor swimming pool could solve a lot of recreational problems for San Bruno youths.
- There is too much emphasis on the city's central park, leaving outlying parks wanting.
- There is a vital need for more recreation programs for girls.
- The city's planned Youth Center has an identity problem that needs solving before it will operate effectively.
- There's not enough publicity of the programs the park and recreation department does have, prior to the events.
- A transportation problem exists when it comes to participating in various programs in different parts of the city.

Youth Robbed At Airport

An employee of a flight service at San Francisco International Airport reported to sheriff's deputies that as he was getting into his car in an employee parking lot Sunday afternoon he was approached by a man who shoved an automatic pistol toward him, got into his car and demanded he drive to an isolated part of the airport, where he robbed him of $45 and his $95 watch.

Armando C. Sario, 25, an assembler of 2190 San Bruno Avenue, Apt. 17, San Bruno, reported to Deputies Eddie Parson and Joseph Horne that the man told him to drive to a fuel loading area at the northern end of the airport, where three other men were waiting in another auto.

on the city's central park, leaving outlying parks wanting.

Commission Chairman Polly Sandkulla told the P-TA leaders "we want you to do the talking. We listen. Don't think anyone (commissioners) is in disagreement with all that's needed. These things are not unnoticed."

She said the needs would be studied. Some already are being studied, and would be fulfilled dependent only upon the commission's ability to obtain necessary financing, and getting over whatever other hurdles might be in the way.

Mrs. Sandkulla offered, "As something to think about," using portable playgrounds for these areas in the city where parks and recreation areas are completely lacking.

"It would be only a stopgap measure," she said, and noted that too would require additional funding.

San Bruno Park School District Superintendent Bill Jennings said the two proposed gymnasiums at Parkside and Engvall schools will be open for public use upon completion.

He said the two facilities will cost close to $1 million, and work on both projects is expected to start after the first of the year.

The Pacific Heights section of the city was the most widely represented in that area for recreational use.

Although there is a baseball diamond in the area, residents complained that it was not being used to its full potential. They pointed out also that there is no turfed area — as yet.

According to Mrs. Shirley Rindbacker, president of the Pacific Heights P-TA, Skyline College has donated approximately 850 cubic yards of topsoil, and the P-TA has pledged $500 to make a turfed field.

But, it was pointed out, the next problem would be cost of maintenance after the job was complete.

The Youth Center, which commissioners have worked hard to make a reality, came under fire by Pacific Heights and Portola Highlands residents, too.

It was pointed out that youths in the area do not identify with San Bruno, but rather with the city of Pacific Heights, since they attend schools in that city.

A special effort to bring youths to the center would be necessary, said the residents.

The center is scheduled to open its doors November 30, according to Commissioner Henry Suddall, who said a campaign to advertise the center is being studied.

Councilwoman Margaret Kosowski, liaison to the commission, expressed appreciation that so many had attended the meeting.

"If we work together we can put together a good recreation program," she said.

"An unqualified yes!" That was the answer that South San Francisco Mayor Frank Mammimi gave Wednesday to the question: Are the residents and business people of this city benefiting from our

A Rash of Burglaries in San Bruno

San Bruno police, it appears, will be busy tracing down a weekend burglar whose main interest is money, and possibly jewelry.

There were ten reports filed during the weekend of home burglaries in the city's two Crestmoor areas. In each case the method of operation was the same: forced entry, ransacking, money and sometimes jewelry taken, with various other articles of value untouched.

In addition to the ten Crestmoor area burglaries, police reported another half-dozen burglaries scattered throughout the city.

The Crestmoor burglaries included one reported large jewelry loss at the home of Earl E. Phillips on Earl Avenue. He told police $2,927 in jewelry was taken.

Frank A. Marty on Crestmoor Drive reported the loss of $41.50 in coins and Charles David Olsen on Trenton Drive reported the loss of $27 in coin.

In two cases, the amount of loss is not immediately known: the home of Richard L. Cardona on Crestmoor Drive, who lost coins and jewelry; and the home of William M. Wright on Whitecliff Avenue.

Four other homes reported no loss. They were John Joseph Perry on Glenview Drive; Howard Wardall on Trenton Drive; John Eugene Rench on Plymouth Drive and John Richard Mallin on Lexington Drive.

Police said they had a tenth report which was not completed. In the five other weekend burglaries, Monte C. Pyl on Lake Drive reported the loss of $850; Andrew Rasmussen on Hawthorne Avenue said he lost $100; Britta J. Webster on Cherry Avenue reported a $50 loss; St. Thomas Lutheran Church was burglarized of $24; and the loss is still pending in a burglary of the Kristen Jacobs Grotle residence on Pacific Avenue, police said.

C of C Vote Due in SSF

Seven persons have been nominated for six positions on the board of directors of the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

They are Robert Bovero, QFI manager; David K. Layser, vice president of Fuller O'Brien; Jack McLaughlin, assistant supervisor of instruction, South San Francisco schools; Gordon Murphy, vice president, Crocker Bank; James Nee, Wells Fargo manager; Renaldo Pepl, New Method Fur Dressing; and Ronald E. Sullivan, Sullivan Investigation Service.

The six will be elected at the regular luncheon meeting November 22 at the Holiday Inn, 245 South Airport Boulevard, South San Francisco.

contractual agreement with VTN Bay Area Inc."

He held a press conference in his office yesterday to refute various complaints that the city is suffering from the precedent-setting arrangement to have a private firm provide engineering services for the city.

Criticism of the arrangement has been coming from two city councilmen, a number of city employees who have resigned, and from others who claim their jobs are in jeopardy, and from annual savings of $57,275, "more than half of which were real and the remainder potential and dependent upon action by the City Council."

originally been laid off last June and replaced by one man, Fred Hull, who headed the VTN's city hall project. Fifteen employees subsequently resigned, for various reasons.

Mammimi declared that at the end of the first 60 days, VTN had reported savings of $10,200 a month — a projected annual decrease in costs of over $122,000. At the end of four months, Hull's office was projecting an annual savings of $57,275, "more than half of which were real and the remainder potential and dependent upon action by the City Council."

At the same time, Mammimi claimed services were up, new permits increased, and for the first time, the Department of Ecological Development, headed by Hull, has applied for federal grants — some $1.15 million worth so far.

The new program, he declared, is attracting the attention of cities and professionals in municipal service throughout the country.

"It is difficult," he declared, "to understand what it is the critics are complaining about. I feel certain that the people, who have just recently received their property tax bills, are appreciative of the city's efforts to reduce expenditures by this significant amount."

Mammimi fielded a series of questions from reporters, particularly over allegations that morale of city employees is down because of fear for job security.

"The purpose of government is to provide services to residents — not just jobs," he declared.

There is greater job security, he asserted, when the employer is solvent; otherwise, no job can be guaranteed.

In hiring VTN, Mammimi said, the city was buying services, rather than simply hiring employees, whom they would have to retain whether there was work or not. VTN has a total of 850 experts in many fields who can supply much more expertise than a small city staff.

Hull, who also shared in the press conference, denied that there was any conflict of interest possible — in spite of the fact that VTN works for some of South San Francisco's private developers, such as Avco Development Co., currently working on a townhouse project in Westborough.

"We forced them to do more than previous developers," Hull observed.

"We divide VTN into two separate divisions, one working exclusively for governmental agencies, the other for private firms. In the case of Avco, VTN refrained from working on any of Avco's developments in South San Francisco."

Mammimi cited VTN's ability to respond quickly to problems, such as getting out its report on a local food control project inside of 30 days. Its extensive work for governmental agencies, he added, has helped in bird-dogging federal grants for South San Francisco.

Claim Drugs Sold at Jr. High

An adult has been frequenting the campus of the Parkway Junior High School in South San Francisco selling marijuana, San Mateo Police learned Friday.

A juvenile picked up with others on marijuana charges told police that he had purchased marijuana on several occasions at the school.

He said that a ten dollar baggie of marijuana found under the driver's seat of a two-door station wagon in which he, two other juveniles and a 23-year-old woman were apprehended at Coyote Point was one of four that the seller had with him at the school yesterday.

The marijuana salesman was described as an older person, and not a student at the school, but one that comes frequently on the school campus.

Police arrested Lucy Jane Flores, 23, of 113 Mulberry Street, South San Francisco. She was charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors and possession of marijuana.

At 7:47 p.m. yesterday, police report, officers on patrol saw the auto full of juveniles make a hasty retreat from a secluded area at Coyote Point, going up a one-way street the wrong way.

Police made a traffic stop and found several open containers of beer and an unopened container of beer between the driver's legs.

They requested the driver, Miss Flores, to dismount from the car, and on opening the door, they report, smelled the odor of burning marijuana. They then requested all to come out, and the three juveniles, all boys, came out.

They were charged with possession of marijuana, possession of alcohol; and one was charged with possession of dangerous drugs when what appeared to be an LSD tablet was found on him.

Coastside Cities Make Plans To Adjust to Proposition 20

The full ramifications of the passage of Proposition 20 at the polls Nov. 7 now will have to be faced by those affected most by the Coastal Zone Conservation Act.

The Act's most vocal opposition came from San Mateo County's two Coastside cities during the campaign. Now they must adjust to living with it, as will Deane and Deane, Inc., the county's largest developer and the heaviest listed contributor to the anti-20 campaign.

The city of Pacifica today made plans for dealing with the ballot proposition which its leaders had feared most.

Mayor Grace McCarthy said that she never had opposed its concept, but feared its many defects.

"First thing, I want to get us back into the Bay Area Planning area," she declared.

Pacifica has been within the planning area of ABAG, together with the nine Bay Area counties. Proposition 20 is alleged to place Pacifica in the same planning area as Santa Cruz and Monterey.

Its biggest defect, she declared, is that its language is so vague, that "We'll need a legal interpretation of just how it does affect us."

She appealed for support now in dealing with the new problems posed by the coastal protection initiative, from those who have been supporting the initiative.

Planning Administrator Bob Morrow said he felt that the first action needed by Pacifica was for a conference with the city attorney for an interpretation of the complex new law.

Meanwhile, Pacifica has till February 1 before it needs to make any changes in its procedures. That is the deadline for formation of the special board which will administer the new law.

At that time Pacifica will begin sending all zoning applications to the new body, when they are for area covered in the law. The law sets up two zones — one stretching 1000 feet inland from high tide for all building and another going to the top of Sweeney Ridge—including virtually all Pacifica — for some kinds of building.

Duplicates of building permits will be sent to the new body. The only exceptions are single-family home alterations valued at less than $7500 and some dredging.

The whole thing will cost Pacifica money, Morrow declared, since it will expand greatly the paper work that the city will have to do.

"I think the effect within the city limits of Half Moon Bay won't really be too great," Mayor Joe Marmont said yesterday. "I think the city can live with Proposition 20."

"Areas where we're going to get into trouble," in Marmont's view, include "people outside the new commissions who don't what I objected to primarily in He was referring to recent conservation group tactics of going to court and regional boards with their demands, mated now with a provision for a long succession of hearings in coastal commission procedures and culminating in judicial review if desired.

Marmont said he saw such major local projects as the Point Harbor expansion and the Deane and Deane Fishing Village being "slowly considered."

"We're getting layer upon layer of bureaucracy and this is what I objected to primarily in Proposition 20," Marmont said. "We need good planning, but we have the city, county, Regional Planning Committee, the BAG coastline plan and now the State of California piled on top."

A statement from Deane and Deane's Half Moon Bay headquarters yesterday made no bones about delays resulting in higher costs for homes and structures in the future.

The major thrust of the coastal initiative, which is basically the old Sieroty Bill that died in the 1971 legislature, is to have the coastal commission produce a statewide coast master plan by Dec. 1, 1973, in the meantime clamping a fairly tight lid on development.

Deane and Deane, owner of 8000 acres on the Coastside and already stumped in many of its plans with court injunctions and moratoriums, was understandably unhappy about the latest development. The firm's statement:

A good part of our land holdings are within the permit area established by the passage of Proposition 20. Projects which are not yet under construction will be submitted to local governments for approval and as required by this new law, must in addition now be submitted to a regional commission for approval.

Changes Due at Airport

There'll be some changes made at San Francisco International Airport before Director James K. Carr leaves January 19.

Carr told the San Francisco Airport Commission last week while submitting his resignation, that there are a few things he would like to have done before he departs.

The Airport USO, for example, will either be moved from the second floor, main terminal, to the mezzanine floor, south terminal, or have its existing space cut by half.

A barber shop on the second floor may be re-located to the main floor to see if the added exposure to passing crowds will increase its business. Carr says the airport needs to have the barber shop service available and also needs revenue from a barber who is doing better business than the shop is doing in its present location across from the USO.

A lease is being negotiated with United Air Lines for the property its huge maintenance base occupies. Carr said he would like to have those negotiations tied up before he departs.

He promised commissioners that they would see the architectural plans for two outdoor waiting rooms for automobile valet service customers before January. Commissioner Joseph Mazola suggested this should be done "in a couple of weeks."

Carr won approval to go ahead with planning for completion of the upper level roadway in a complete circle around the airport's central parking garage. The work will soon be going to bid, he said.

the regional level, we anticipate that in most cases we must then procure another approval from the state commission. Because of the complexity of this new law, we anticipate it will take several years to procure these approvals.

The State Assembly Planning and Land Use Committee reviewed our plans last year and it's a shame that the public must pay higher prices not for better planning and product but because of the additional time spent getting through government bureaucracy.

ably Bill 1471, which is the bill that became Proposition 20. It's a shame that the public must pay higher prices not for better planning and product but because of the additional time spent getting through government bureaucracy.

5 More SSF Boys Nabbed

Five more boys, 12 to 16 years of age, have been rounded up and charged with a series of burglaries in the Brentwood section of South San Francisco, police announced today.

It brings the total of arrests begun last week, to seven.

The burglaries took place largely in the Briarwood-Rosewood area. In two cases, a boy managed to enter by crawling in through a doggie door.

Police have already recovered some of the stolen loot, including a movie camera and some radios. The boys mostly stole small items or cash, police said.

Strange S.S.F. Arrest

South San Francisco police are trying to unravel an unusual case involving a man they arrested at a South Airport Boulevard hotel under the name of Kenneth McMein.

That was his alias. His real name was Edgar Allen Poe, police say.

It was he who called the police. He complained that two men he had befriended in the Tenderloin in San Francisco and invited up to his hotel room had gotten him drunk and stole some of his personal items, his wallet, cash and American Express credit card.

running a check on that credit card — and the news came back that it had been stolen in Indianapolis, police said.

Poe, 48, who hails from Detroit, was charged with forgery and possession of a stolen credit card. Police claim that he used the card to fly out here, and rent his hotel room.

Junior College District Teachers Take the Offensive

By JOHN HORGAN

Teachers in the San Mateo Junior College District are on the offensive.

This is a remarkable change from the way things were during the first 50 years of the district's existence.

For generations, the relationship between the teachers and their Board of Trustees and administration was a calm and relaxed one.

Everyone felt part of the same unified team. There was no talk of striking, no rumblings of revolt and no rumor of widespread discontent among the rank and file.

Salary negotiations were negotiations in name only. The professors were content to let their superintendent call the shots for them and they accepted just about whatever was handed to them.

There was little tension and even less animosity. But all that has changed as the district has grown into a huge three-campus system with a budget hovering around the $25 million mark.

Now, the nerves are getting restless. In fact, some of the teachers are downright defiant.

The authority of the board and the administration is under attack as never before in this district.

A News Analysis

Evidence of dissatisfaction on the part of the teaching staff is piling up with each passing week.

The situation reached a crescendo of unhappiness last month when teachers at Skyline College, San Bruno, voted not to take part in any out-of-classroom duties such as committee meetings and the like.

The response from the board has been virtually nil. Instead of ordering the staff to honor its contractual obligations, the trustees have opted to have the Skyline president, Dr. John Peterson, take care of the trouble by himself.

And therein lies one of the keys to the district's problems. The district's president, Dr. Peterson, takes care of the trouble by himself.

In the past one and one-half years, all four of the critical leadership jobs in the district have undergone change.

All three presidents at the College of San Mateo, Canada College and Skyline are new men. Two of them are from districts outside this one.

The chancellor himself, Clifford Erickson, has announced that he will quit his post effective July 1, 1973.

In effect, there has been a power vacuum at the top.

The teachers, aroused by the after-effects of last year's tax override election, have quickly tried to fill that vacuum. The trustees, four of whom played a large part in guiding the district from its days as a single-school setup to the present system, have only lately seemed to grasp the full implications of what's happening.

In order of tenure on the board, Robert Tarver, Mrs. Eleanor Nettie, Carl Ward and Francis Pearson have a total of 56 years of experience with official district business. They, along with new member James Torney, are now being challenged as never before.

The professors, who realize full well that they are dealing with both a lame-duck chancellor and at least two college presidents who are just beginning to feel their way along the maze of political pitfalls on their campuses (CSM's Dr. David Mertes was at that school before he was named president), have begun to attempt to take their grievances, their ideas and their requests directly to the trustees instead of going through normal administrative channels.

At last week's meeting of the board, it was announced that the California Teachers Association and the American Federation of Teachers have banded together to present a united front for future salary and working condition negotiations. From now on, the board will have to deal directly with that group's Certificated Employees Council, something unheard of in the placid days of the one-campus operation.

In addition, it is the professors who are pushing the hardest to have the district's administrative organization examined again. They want to know whether or not a chancellor is needed before a replacement for Erickson is chosen. They would like the board to become active by interested in making this examination. The trustees have agreed to meet this week at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday at Skyline to consider this matter.

The teachers are also vitally interested in issues like class size and the question of defining autonomy for the three colleges.

The administrative leadership of the district is in such a state of constant flux that there are certain segments of the faculty which believe, with some reason, perhaps, that they represent the most experienced and knowledgeable point of view in the district.

At CSM in particular, there is a large majority of faculty with tenure and length of service which far exceeds that of any of the top administrators.

It is probably for that reason (among others) that CSM's teachers were the ones who voted no confidence in Erickson last year and requested that the CTA institute a morale study this year.

The trustees, who are being confronted by the demands of their professors at nearly every meeting, have attempted to have their administrators take care of the problems through regular channels. But to little avail.

The administrators are being bypassed with great regularity.

And the board isn't pleased about it.

For the first time in recent memory, the trustees refused to grant their administrators any raises at all for 1972-73.

Morale among the administrators is thus understandably low. They, too, have formed their own negotiating group which will represent them during the next salary discussions.

A potential solution to some of the uneasiness being felt throughout the district could come with the selection of a new superintendent.

If the board decides that it wants to stick with the same organization it has now and if a new chancellor is chosen, the kind of leader he is could be critically important in the handling of the faculty and staff.

Naturally, the teachers have already expressed the desire to have a say in who the new man will be.

Anything less than that would be totally out of character for them.

Developers Delayed in Pacifica Planning Sessions

By JACK BIK

Developers fared badly in last week's meeting of the Pacifica Planning Commission—a meeting check-full of controversial hearings that dragged it out until 1:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Protesting homeowners helped fill Room 40, at Oceana High School to the walls, as many even milled about the corridor as they kept vigil on any threats to their neighborhood.

Some of the more controversial items were held over to the next meeting, November 20, thus insuring another marathon conclude.

One such item was the application of Frann, Edler and Associates, in behalf of Challenge Development, for a rezoning to planned development to permit development of 807 condominium and single-family dwelling units on a 3.6-acre rolling hillside between Linda Mar and Valleamar.

A large delegation of Fassel Avenue residents came to protest the development, called Rockaway Highlands, charging that almost all the traffic served the development would be funneled through their residential street.

When the hearing was continued to November 20, the delegation stayed on to add their protests to the variance application for a 182-unit apartment complex to be built just down the hill from their homes, on Fassel.

The planners took no action on the letter, but merely went on to the next order of business. This meant that the use permit died yesterday, and Plombo will have to reapply all over again.

One developer who did win his request turned out to be William B. Kirkland, who presented specific plans for the 135-unit Pacific Development Co. This project will go up on a 14-acre site between Roberts Road and Coast Highway, north of Linda Mar. Recreational facilities will grace Rockaway River.

Planners relented in a hearing to consider revocation of the use permit for Adobe Shopping Center, on Linda Mar Boulevard, for failure to keep up their landscaping. However, the planners kept the hearing open until they were satisfied with the landscaping of the Union 76 service station, which is part of the complex.

The application of former Millbrae Mayor Web Witmer, in behalf of his sister-in-law, Alice Ballard to rezone her little home on the beach to commercial recreation, was laid over until November 20. The site fronts on the west side of Coast Highway, some 150 feet south of Crespi Drive. Witmer apparently had no immediate plans for development.

Developer Barry Roth was rejected in his application to reduce required building distance between two of the three main structures of a 20-unit

Millbrae Man Arrested in Hit-Run Case

A young Millbrae man was arrested and accused of being involved in a hit-run accident involving two other cars in Burlingame.

Rafael I. Fernandez, 18, 347 Aviator Avenue, was booked on charges of driving without a driver's license, hit and run driving, and driving a car with improper brakes. In addition, he was arrested on charges specified in three previously issued traffic warrants, with bail totaling $425.

Burlingame Traffic Officer Ted Sheehan reported that he was called to an accident at Ocean Avenue and Marchion Drive. He said Roger Kalmin, 850 El Capitán Drive, Millbrae, complained he had been driving north on Ocean when he was struck by another car.

The other car backed away, it was reported, for an entire block, clipping a parked car before turning away on a side street. The parked car belonged to J. H. Giesler, 1319 Bonito Avenue, Burlingame, said Officer Sheehan.

The officer scouted around and located the apparent hit-run car a block away.

apartment complex on Linda Mar Boulevard and Adobe Drive.

Planners told him that they expected each building to be 25 feet apart and that was final. However, they permitted him variance for a rear yard setback, so that his site could accommodate the three buildings.

Planners granted a one-year extension to Alma Heights Academy for a use permit requirement that they complete their curbs, sidewalks and half the street for their new building on White Field. Joseph Greco pleaded a financial problem for the school.

Challenge Developments was turned down again when they asked for two off-site signs for their new model homes on the 1200 block of Coast Highway. Charles Oliva pleaded the need for one sign on the end of Linda Mar Boulevard, at Oddstad Drive, and for another sign on Sheila Lane and Coast Highway.

Planners expressed fear that they would face a flood of applications for signs from such developments as Park Castas, Dick Burton, representing the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Dept., had no trouble getting his permit for site development for Frontland Park. He did have to file an environmental statement for the project.

The Fairmont Improvement Assn. likewise had no trouble getting their permit to build a garage and storage building for their landscaping equipment, in their park, although they too had to file an environmental statement, under new rules.

Robert Sherman appeared in behalf of investor Ken Royce to ask for a reduction in the required minimum dwelling unit sizes for one and two-bedroom units. He pleaded that the Federal Housing Authority allowed the smaller units. The planners explained that there was nothing to stop them from requiring higher standards than the FHA—and denied his request.

The use permit had previously been approved by the planning commission. The four-building project will be right across the street from Crespi School.

Another angry delegation of homeowners appeared to combat another challenge project.

Frann, Edler and Associates had asked for a renewal of their use permit to quarry material at their 950-unit Milagra Ridge development, on the east side of Oceana Boulevard. Resident after resident stood up to complain about the dust, the noise and the traffic from the constant quarrying.

The planners continued this hearing in November 20. The present permit expires on December 6.

One development was killed altogether. A letter was received from Plombo Construction Co. for extension of its use permit for a 20-unit apartment building on Monterey Road, not very far from Milagra Ridge. This project had previously been approved, but the builder had been holding off his application for a building permit.

North County residents have been making news at the San Mateo Red Cross office.

A fourteen-year-old boy named Brian Kelly came into the Burlingame office with his father, Pat Kelly, to make a donation for flood victims. He presented Fund Vice Chairman Miss Elizabeth Mack, with a check for $115. Brian had earned the money this past summer by washing cars and doing yard work. Kelly is a first aid instructor, has earned his Red Cross 50 mile swim certificate, and is a scout leader. The family lives in San Bruno.

Another 50 mile swim certificate has been issued to Clarence Santos of South San Francisco. Quite an accomplishment since Mr. Santos has had extensive leg and back surgery recently. Completing 50 miles in the water is part of the Red Cross Water Safety Program called "Swim and Stay Fit." An individual must swim a quarter of a mile during one visit to a pool. Taking care that the Brisbane area elderly stay fit and healthy is the concern of Senior Girl Scouts in South San Francisco who are working with the Red Cross on Project FIND.

THE WESTMOOR High School P.T.A. Executive Board, led by President Lorraine Thompson has set November 16 for the annual "Back to School Night."

There will be a short business meeting at 7:30 p.m., after which parents will visit classrooms, meet teachers and learn about student activities at the school.

Students will be taking home copies of their schedule, so that parents may follow the same schedule. A bell will be rung at the end of each session so that parents will have a chance to visit each of the classrooms on their schedule.

A GET ACQUAINTED Dessert Social is planned for November 16, by the Franklin D. Roosevelt P.T.A.

It will be held in the multi-use room at 7:30 p.m. Guest Speaker will be Bonny London of the San Mateo County Reading Council whose subject will be "Listening as it Relates to Reading."

A HOLIDAY FAIR will be the theme at Margaret Pauline Brown School December 1, from 3:15-9 p.m.

A community effort of parents and children are making gifts for sale. The Brownies and Girl Scouts have bused their hands with gifts to sell. Chairmen Joanne McMillan and Judy Rigas have been conducting day-long workshops every Wednesday at school in room 10. While Noreen Thurmond sets up the coffee pot, mothers are sewing, gluing or designing the many craft items.

Busy at home are mothers also chairmen of booths such as: Mother-daughter, Barbara Gaul; Christmas booth, Linda Sarao; flowers, LeRoy and Elena Fransson; games for children to play, Gina Ruel; father-son, Frank Gaul; White Elephant, Esther LaPedit; cake booth, Irene Reicher; food, Shirley Czekowski.

Plans are under way for the first "get acquainted" dance for parents of Westmoor High students to be held December 2.

The music will be live and the theme will be music of the '40s, starting at 8:30 until 1 a.m.

The price is $2.50 a person and proceeds will go to the Westmoor students in the form of scholarships and financial support for student activities, clubs and athletic teams.

Family Forum

ROBERT BARRY of the California State Board of Equalization spoke about non-profit organizations being required to collect and pay sales tax to 17th District P.T.A. members recently.

He also stated that all P.T.A. Units having no more than three fund-raising events a year are obligated to have a temporary sales permit. Units having more than three money-making events a year should apply for a permanent permit.

Parent-Teacher-Associations fund-raising sales tax guides booklets are available.

Rules and regulations concerning the sales and use tax will be printed in the current copy of Seventeen.

For immediate information or a copy of P.T.A. tax guide, contact your local Board of Equalization, 288 E. 18th Ave., San Mateo, or telephone 341-5625.

Also, on the agenda was Mrs. Lennard Swenson, vice president of the California State P.T.A. who spoke on P.T.A. policy and procedures.

THE LINDA MAR P.T.A., Pacifica, will have a Mother-Daughter Night November 15 at 8 p.m. in the multipurpose room.

Bev Soldevila, president, has announced that Fran Nichols from The Craft Showcase in Serranome will present a holiday decorating program.

Included will be candles and centerpieces for Christmas, decorating examples for different periods of furniture, making wreaths, package decorating ideas, and home decorating.

DENISE REMEDIOS, Mrs. Joann McMillan and her daughter, Cathy, display some of the handicrafts to be offered at M. Pauline Brown's Holiday Fair. (Starr Photo)

Spanish Language Project

A new outreach project, known as the Spanish Language Project, is now getting underway at the Daly City public libraries. This two-year federally-funded operation was secured by the Peninsula Library System, of which Daly City is a participating member. Margarita Stadenmeier, a librarian whose freckles and blue eyes to some may belie her Latin background and fluency with Spanish speech, has been hired by the Peninsula Library System as director.

Locally the project is the province of Ed Cavallini, Community Services Librarian for the Daly City public libraries. Mrs. James Hough, a director of the Friends of the Daly City Library who is fluent in Spanish, is the Friends' chairman of volunteers for this project and is serving as its first volunteer. The initial aim of the program is to acquaint our Spanish-speaking community of the many books written in the Spanish language which are available in all three Daly City libraries.

Mrs. Hough will delve through the master catalogue to translate titles and subtitles of books, when written in Spanish, into English as an aid to the non-Spanish-speaking librarians. This will make it easier for the latter to recommend library materials to the Spanish-speaking.

The largest collection of Spanish language materials is housed in the John D. Daly Library, 6351 Mission Street. Library materials are geared to various interests and ages and range from basic Spanish to literature.

It is hoped to soon have "how-to" books for the various trades and vocations, newspapers, periodicals and other materials. At the moment, many additional books are being processed and will be available.

McCarthy-Martin Rites Conducted

A home in Burlingame awaits Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robert Martin (Christine Marie McCarthy) who are honeymooning at Lake Tahoe and Disneyland.

Our Lady of Mercy Catholic Church in Daly City was the setting Saturday afternoon for the couple's marriage. A reception followed at the California Club.

The new Mrs. Martin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McCarthy of Daly City. She is an alumna of Mercy High School and the College of San Mateo who is now employed in San Francisco.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Martin, also of Daly City. He was graduated from Rioran High School and the University of San Francisco, where he belonged to Delta Sigma Pi Business Fraternity. At present, Thomas is also working in San Francisco.

The Rev. Thomas Bowe and the Rev. Richard Power conducted the four o'clock rites. For the ceremony, the bride wore an ivory chiffon floor-length gown trimmed with Alencon lace. Her bridal party chose moss green chiffon dresses.

Good morning, good cooks.

Thanksgiving is just a week away and it's not a bit too soon to start planning for the holiday.

Instead of "over the hills and through the woods to Grandmother's house we go," it's now "over the bridge and down the freeway." Whatever the method of transportation, the idea remains the same, a gathering of family and friends to share talk, laughter and gratitude for many blessings. And incidentally, to share a meal.

When we plan the Thanksgiving meal turkey, dressing, cranberry sauce come immediately to mind. Along with these favorites, here are some recipes for a molded salad, vegetables and dessert.

TOMATO ASPIC

- 2 pkgs. unflavored gelatin
- cup water
- 1 can (No. 2 size) tomato juice
- 1 can tomato sauce (8 oz.)
- 1 bay leaf
- Pinch salt
- 1 Tbsp. sugar
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 2 Tablespoons grated lemon
- 1 ripe avocado, diced

12 stuffed olives, sliced

In saucepan combine the one can tomato juice, one can tomato sauce, one bay leaf, salt, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon lemon juice and two tablespoons grated onion. Heat to boiling point. remove bay leaf.

During this time place the two packages gelatin in the three-fourths cup water and allow to stand for 5 minutes. When the tomato mixture reaches boiling point, blend in the softened gelatin and pour into large bowl. Chill until thickened then blend in the diced avocado and 12 stuffed olives, sliced. Pour into a ring mold or into an oblong pan and chill until firmly set. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise. Serves 6 to 8.

Sweet potatoes seem a part of Thanksgiving feasting and these golden yams make an attractive and tasty dish.

GOLDEN YAMS

- 2 cans (1 lb. 13 oz.) yams or sweet potatoes
- 4 Tablespoons (or more) butter
- 20 dried apricot halves, soaked briefly in hot water and diced
- 1 cup finely diced celery
- Salt to taste

Heat the two cans yams, drain, add the four tablespoons butter and mash. Mix in the 20 diced apricots and one cup diced celery and salt to taste.

Turn into a shallow baking dish and bake at 425 degrees until very hot, about 14 minutes. Serves 8.

ZUCCHINI DELUXE

- 1 1/2 pounds zucchini

Cut in 1-inch slices and cook 5 to 8 minutes in salted water. Allow to drain while you make the sauce.

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 small onion, finely minced
- 2 teaspoons flour
- 1 can cream of mushroom soup
- 1/2 can white wine

Melt the three teaspoons butter, add the minced onion, cook until softened, add the two teaspoons flour, stir well. Blend in the can of mushroom soup and the half can wine. Place the well drained zucchini in baking dish and pour sauce over all. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes. Serves 8.

A traditional dessert for Thanksgiving is pumpkin pie. This dessert serves pumpkin pie in a new way, as a cake.

PUMPKIN PIE CAKE

- 1 pkg. yellow cake mix (reserve one cup for topping)
- 1/2 cup margarine, melted
- 1 egg

Combine the remaining cake mix, half cup melted margarine and egg. Press into bottom of 9x13-inch pan.

FILLING

- 3 cups pumpkin
- 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 2 eggs
- 2-thirds cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves

Combine the three cups pumpkin, half cup brown sugar, two eggs, two-thirds cup milk, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, half teaspoon ginger and fourth teaspoon cloves. Beat until smooth and pour over unbaked crust.

TOPPING

- 1 cup reserved cake mix
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 cup margarine

Combine the one cup cake mix, half cup sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon and fourth cup margarine. Mix until crumbly and sprinkle over top of filling.

Bake in 350-degree oven 45 to 50 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve topped with whipped cream.

Avalon Group Readies Plans for Christmas

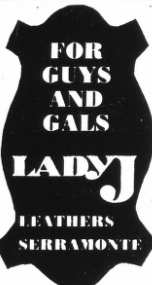

To date, five out of 13 South San Francisco churches have written to Avalon Concerned Taxpayers (A.C.T.), giving them the necessary information to enable the local groups to provide a Merry Christmas for South San Francisco needy families," according to Celina Caravantes, project chairman.

Avalon Concerned Taxpayers's fourth needy family Christmas drive is well underway. Donations of canned goods, staples, toys, games, books, gift wrapping, clothing, as well as Blue Chip stamps, are needed, she said.

The event, started four years ago, has made Christmas a happy time for over 150 South San Franciscans who might face a bleak Christmas. Generosity in the past has provided at least a week's supply of food, including a turkey and ham, to each family.

Funds derived from the group's 1st Benefit Dance last April, will be used to "purchase some of the perishables, but the need for certificates for turkeys and meat, which are the hardest to get, commodities, is great.

Persons interested in helping the less fortunate should call Mrs. Caravantes, 425 Valverde Dr., Mrs. Don Barnes, 418 Valverde, South San Francisco and Bill Spencer, president of A.C.T., at Hazelwood Meats in Brentwood.

Serramonte High-lites

By JOHN PEREIRA

In its first two years of varsity competition, the Serramonte football team hadn't given its rooters much to cheer about, losing all seven league games last year, and winning only one game in 1970.

This year, however, things are different. After being crushed by Westmoor in the opening game, the Regents have played three fine games, first routing Jefferson, 28 to 8, then playing even with South San Francisco before losing, 14 to 0, and finally squeaking past Oceana, 8 to 6.

So with an even 2-2 record, the team has a fair chance for at least a .500 record this season — and a bright future ahead.

The win over Oceana came on Homecoming Day and set the tone for the day's festivities. Other than the victory, the day's other most important event was the homecoming dance, at which the queen and the class princesses were crowned. Homecoming Queen Christine Iwahashi reigned over the event, assisted by Senior Princess Mary Gurr, Junior Princess Kris Dale, Sophomore Princess Maria Briones, and Freshman Princess, Denisa Rovai.

Terra Nova Topics

By DENISE BARR

Has the hard drug problem at Terra Nova decreased? Thanks Panagoulas, principal, and Rich Burt, assistant principal-administration, believe it is.

Both administrators attribute the decrease to the education of young people concerning hard narcotics. Police officers are going into the elementary schools with a drug orientation program.

In this program the students are shown samples of various narcotics, told the drugs' possible effects and told the many "street" names of each drug. Another phase of the education of drugs is students' actually seeing their peers on a bad trip or being told about such a trip.

TELEVISION programs and various anti-drug programs could also be credited with the drug decrease.

Terra Nova was one of the first schools in San Mateo County to be hit hard with a drug problem. It is believed that the period of 1965-1968 was the worst for the narcotics problem at Terra Nova. During those three years, students were found shooting up heroin in the bathroom and quite a few students were stoned on campus.

Marijuana is the most popular narcotic with teenagers. The majority of people picked up for possession of marijuana are teenagers. The most popular reason Pacifica youths give for smoking dope is that there is nothing else to do. Others claim they like the good feeling they get from the marijuana. And if parents drink alcohol for kicks, why shouldn't kids smoke dope for kicks? Each person has his own reason for getting high.

IT IS THE HOPE of Terra Nova's administration and the Pacifica Police department that the problem has declined due to the students' no longer getting involved with drugs.

But, it is true that a lot of the drug scene has gone underground.

In past years, the Terra Nova Executive Board has been criticized for not working hard enough for the benefit of our school.

Our Fall '72 board, however, has broken through the apathy of the past and has gotten in and is in the process of getting a lot done for the benefit of the TN student body.

The board has a finance committee studying where our mon-cy goes, a committee revising our very out-dated constitution, developed a system where TN students can earn money by working at our night football games, become members of California Junior State, which enables them to receive ideas from various schools in California, are in the process of trying to set up a student exchange program with a school in another district, are developing a Spring Fair, and, along with Student Activities Advisor Mrs. Pat Finetrock, they had developed our new activity period.

TERRA NOVA'S Drama Department fall production, "The Venetian Twins," opened last night and will be playing up to Saturday night. The play is a long forgotten comedy, discovered by David Campbell, drama teacher, last year during his sabbatical. "Venetian Twins" is about twin brothers who play tricks on their lady friends. A few well-known veterans from previous "smash" plays that will perform in "The Venetian Twins" are: Louanne Moldvan, George Richardson, Nancy Tomlinson, Tim Kennedy, Cathy Foster, Penny Pama, and a great cast of many more drama students.

Daly-Fericano

Millbrae is the first address for Paul Fericano and his bride, the former Katherine Ju-deen Daly, who exchanged vows at St. Robert's Church in San Bruno and honeymooned at Lake Tahoe.

The couple greeted guests after the service at a reception at the Royal Coach Motor Hotel.

The new matron is the daughter of Mrs. Josephine Kimball and Frank Fericano of Danville. She was escorted to the altar by William Francis Daly of San Bruno.

Mercy High School in Burlingame and San Ramon High School in Danville are the respective alma maters of the bride and bridegroom.

60 Walk Out In Brisbane

More than 60 male employees of the Van Waters & Rogers Company in Brisbane walked off the job on Friday in protest over what a spokesman for Local 880, Warehousemen's Union, called an in-ranks demolition of a fellow worker.

There were no attempts by pickets wearing armbands marked "unfair" to stop trucks entering or leaving the yard on Old Bayshore Boulevard and police said they expected no trouble.

Samuel Reyes, spokesman for the union, ventured the walk-out would be settled in a matter of hours.

The employees walked out at marked 6:30 a.m.

Serra High Parents to Class Nov. 20

It will be back to high school for Serra parents on the evening of November 20.

On this Back-to-School night they will be given their son's class schedules and will attend each of them for ten minutes. Teachers will explain their courses, goals and objectives and class procedures.

"Such an evening provides parents with a valuable orientation for their son's day in school," said David Carlemagno, assistant principal. "Each one gets a good summary of the courses from the teachers themselves."

"And besides," he added, "they enjoy the evening, sitting in the desks again."

After the abbreviated school day ends, parents will be able to schedule private conferences with teachers if they wish.

Rev. Ludwig Andre, principal, will welcome parents in the auditorium at 7 p.m. before "classes" begin. The Mothers' Auxiliary will serve refreshments in the cafeteria at the end of the evening.

Well, It Was Like This ...

A young San Carlos man told Highway Patrolman J. L. Benton that the reason his motorcycle crashed into an embankment on Cabrillo Highway near San Gregorio Saturday evening is that the wind blew both contact lenses out of his eyes and he was unable to see a stop sign.

Benton reported that Richard L. Tomms, 19, of 205 Lynnton Avenue, was westbound on La Honda Road at 6 p.m. and missed the stop sign at the entrance to Cabrillo Highway. The motorcycle crossed the highway and hit an embankment on the west side of the roadway.

Tomms was taken to Sequoia Hospital where he was treated for a broken nose and facial bruises. The motorcycleist told the patrolman he lost his contact lenses shortly before the mishap.

9 Taken From Boat in Bay

Nine persons were taken off a 45-foot boat that ran aground just after midnight on Monday in San Francisco Bay off Redwood City.

Two others, including the owner, remained behind and manned the boat as the tide lifted it at 6 this morning.

The United States Coast Guard reported today that the boat is owned by Larry Leaff of Cupertino and is docked at Redwood City.

Crusade Hits 57% of Goal

United Bay Area Crusade officials said the total of donations in the current drive stood at $9,607,730 today, or 57 per cent of the goal for the five-county UBAC area. The San Mateo County total, at 47 per cent, was far below the area average.

Too Many Licenses; Cab Driver Arrested

A Millbrae cab driver who had two temporary driver's licenses in his possession, as well as a notice of revocation of his regular driver's license, was arrested Saturday evening by sheriff's deputies at San Francisco International Airport.

Deputy Robert Pruckey reported that the driver, Demetrius E. Zachariadis, 40, of 165 Aviator Avenue, also had six credit cards which had been reported lost or stolen, a social security card bearing a different first name than his own, and a switchblade knife in his cab.

Office Park Complex in San Bruno

An office park complex, that will replace the Arvin-Mortensen Nursery on Sneath Lane in San Bruno, will be built under a planned development classification.

Planning commissioners Monday night approved a change in zoning classification for the 11.2 acre parcel at the suggestion of tighter controls on the project.

The garden office concept will be built in four phases, with the first phase scheduled to begin next spring and completion of the final phase in 1979.

Numerous conditions were placed on the project's approval, including receipt of an Environmental Impact Report (EIR).

Planning Director Jack Mulqueeny indicated he had a preliminary EIR and said that based on information provided there doesn't appear to be any substantial adverse effect. Mulqueeny will submit the EIR at the commission's next meeting.

Immediately adjacent to this proposed project is the U.S. Naval facility, which will be expanded within the next fiscal year to include a new Naval and Marine Corp Reserve Training Facility building. In addition, a federal office complex is planned to be built there some time in the future.

Commissioners also approved a use permit for a 40-unit apartment complex between Huntington and Mastic Avenues, on property that abuts Maryland Place.

An EIR also was approved for the project, although commissioners got into a brief hassle as to what constitutes open space.

According to developer Joe Welch, blacktop driveways were acceptable when the planning commission more than a year ago granted permission to build the apartment complex.

Commissioner Leon Miller pointed out that that use permit expired and the commission could require different conditions on the reapplication.

Miller said he objected to the project "based on density." He voted against the approval.

Commissioner Bill Cox said the project "would be an asset to the downtown community."

This position was concurred in by Commissioner Lynn Buxton, who also said he felt Miller made some good points. Buxton voted for the project as the lesser of two evils, because the project as a whole is probably good.

In another request, a use permit to establish a beauty salon at 621-623 San Mateo Avenue was continued on the agenda because the applicant was not present, and the commissioners wanted to place three restrictions on their approval.

One of these restrictions was to remove two "very old" garages behind the site as being "not up to code." Commissioner Buxton described them as "fire hazards."

One man in the audience, saying he represented the applicant, and identified later by a commissioner as a realtor, walked out of the meeting when the demand for garage removal was made.

"Forget the whole thing," he said about the requested use permit as he exited.

Commissioners instead carried the item on the agenda. A request for an amendment to planned development, to allow construction of a illuminated 49-square-foot pylon sign in the eastern portion of the Tannen Shopping Center (in the Penny's TBA building), was approved.

We Offer Three Types Of Ground Beef To Meet Differences In Taste, Preference and Use.

TYPE	FAT CONTENT	OBJECTIVE APPROXIMATE RANGE
Regular Ground Beef	25% to 27%
Lean Ground Beef	19% to 21%
Super Lean Ground Beef	13% to 15%

For example, a one-pound package of regular ground beef would contain approximately 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 ounces of lean meat while a one-pound package of super lean ground beef would contain approximately 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 ounces of lean meat. Subject to preferences of taste, but only as lean as you really need. The former use of the names "Ground Sirloin," "Ground Round," and "Ground Chuck" was never intended to mean that the particular cut referred to was the only source of the ground beef sold under that name.

All of our ground beef is processed with close attention and guaranteed to assure excellent quality. However, even with the most modern equipment and technology now available, it is not yet possible to guarantee that each package will fall within the fat content objective.

All of our Ground Beef carries the famous Safeway guarantee. It must please you or we will promptly refund your money.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

George 'n' Teddy Back By Popular Demand

George 'n' Teddy, who are now in a limited return engagement at Whiskey Hill, downtown Burlingame, recently recorded a new single. Released by MGM, it's called "Stop That Train" and it hit local record shops this week. Judging by the number of fans gathered here nightly, the record is destined to hit the top of the charts. . . . A dinner entree that is creating much comment at Le Bistro Rouge on Twenty-fifth Ave., is Duckling Flambe au Triple Sec (served with fresh vegetables, rice or potatoes). But allow ample time for this epicurean delight to be prepared. Ask Dimitrios Fanopoulos, the cordial host-owner, to suggest an appropriate dinner wine. . . . Did you know that Park Avenue Tours has a package offering a generous amount of refunds, which can be applied toward food, beverages and fun "The Nevada Way," when you make Lake Tahoe or Reno your destination? Yes, Park Avenue Tours, with four Bay Area offices to serve you, has various types of excursions to Nevada — and everyone is a money-saver. . . . Yolanda's Terminal Cafe, primarily known for its family-style dining, is a big family night attraction on Sundays. The reasonable prices and excellent fare accounts for much of its popularity. Sunday night menu features are Veal Scallopini and Fried Chicken.

DYNAMIC RESTAURATEUR — Murray Lehr premieres his spectacular gourmet dinner house, Lehr's Greenhouse Restaurant and Potting Shed Lounge at 740 Sutter St. in San Francisco. Lehr's aim was to create a dinner house unlike anything else in the United States.

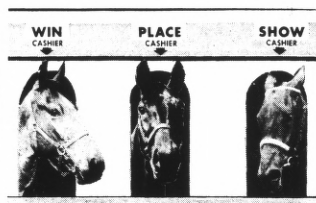

Holiday Pies To Order At Stickney's Bakeries

That Thanksgiving feast at your house will taste even better if you cap it off with a freshly-baked pie from Stickney's Bakeries. Traditional Pumpkin and mincecraze, like Grandma used to bake in the kitchen oven, have long been Stickney trademarks. Fruit, berry and cream, delectable and light as you like them, are also available. Better place your order now at any of the Stickney restaurants and bakeries. . . . You don't have to have lunch at a restaurant where all you see is the four walls. At the beautiful Fisherman, beside the Bay in Burlingame, they are featuring attractive "Seafarer's Lunch Specials" daily. Some of the tasty specials include Seafood Cannelloni, Calamari Sauce Sicilian-style, Sauerbraten with Potato Pancakes and Chicken Fricassee. The nautical view through large picture windows of the Bay take the hum-drum aspect out of a lunch and make it an experience. . . . The Tiki Garden restaurant, a Frank Martinelli success located on Norfolk, is situated in the same building as his Beach House, but has its own separate entrance. Polynesian specialties are going over big here. Brotherly Love continues to draw SRO dance crowds to the Beach House Wednesday through Sunday.

Luncheon Doubly Inviting At The Stylish Shirt Tail

The scarcity of unusual restaurants serving lunch on Saturdays makes the stylish Shirt Tail in Palo Alto doubly inviting. On Stanford football days you can stoke up on North Beach-style "Joe's Special" or inspired, mountainous "Chef's Salad." After the game, visit the Shirt Tail, where Valerian entertains nightly at the piano in the sunken lounge. . . . Why is Leo Martay smiling? You'll find several good reasons behind all his happiness. It seems Martay, owner of the Whistle Stop in Belmont, is finally getting a long-desired vacation (which is one reason), and surely Martay is the chosen spot (reason number two), and Christ mas time is the appointed time (reason three). Would you believe — he already has his tickets and hotel reservation. . . . Maiden Lane's Iron Horse Restaurant is ideally located for business organizations who regularly hold meetings in the fine banquet rooms here. This, plus the holiday season, makes it a "must" to get your reservations in now. Deluxe luncheons are served daily, along with gourmet hors d'oeuvres during the cocktail hour. Dinners feature continental cuisine.

TURKEY TIME AT BAY MEADOWS — This lovely Pilgrim lady invites you to jolt down November 15, 16, 17 and 21 (Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Tuesday) in your notebook. These are the dates when the California Jockey Club at Bay Meadows will give away four turkeys each race for nine races. Drawings will be held prior to each race. Tickets will be given at the Gate when entering the race track, whether you select the Grandstand, Club House, or Turf Club. This is a "meat-on-the-table" Thanksgiving Special. Also, on Thanksgiving Day there will be a special race, which, as of this writing, General Manager Robert S. Gunderson was undecided whether it should be between ostriches, camels, or elephants. Be on hand Thanksgiving Day and see for yourselves. First thoroughbred race on Thanksgiving Day ONLY will be 11:30 a.m. Regular Post Time Tuesday through Saturday.

Bay Meadows 'Fortune Map' Is Sure Winner

For "Fortune Seekers," Bay Meadows presents a map in their advertisement that will be of great help in locating the famous San Mateo race track. The current thoroughbred race meet is being presented Tuesday through Saturday, with the first race off at 12:30 p.m. through December 20. Bay Meadows is accessible by train, bus and automobile. Besides offering sport fans the country's top jockeys and thoroughbreds, cocktail lounges and restaurant areas add to a delightful afternoon's pleasure. Special parties may be arranged for groups for fun and fund raising. The number to call is 345-1661. Hats off to Vince's Tony Licata for his efforts as chairman of the San Mateo County Hotel and Restaurant Association's Golf Tournament. The annual tournament, which was played at Lake Merced, saw a tremendous turnout. It's one of the few times a year when local restaurant and club owners gather for a day of fun and relaxation. . . . The Crystal Set, a trio of talented musicians which drew record crowds during previous Peninsula engagements, are signed for a six-week stint in the Golden Rooster Lounge of the Redwood Inn, South San Francisco.

Award-Winning Prime Rib Dinners

The Prime Ribs of Beef is a splendid example of the quality and quantity to be enjoyed at Scotty Campbell's, a Redwood City dinner house which has won many awards for excellence in cuisine, service and hospitality. If you're taking in the theater this weekend, a grand way to start off the evening is with dinner at Scotty Campbell's. A juicy, well-turned steak is also the live-it-up choice of countless numbers dining here. However, there is also the choice of chicken, veal and fish dishes. . . . For an inexpensive luncheon, perfect for any businessman on a budget, try the daily buffet fare at The Putter, Burlingame Plaza. Served Monday through Friday, the buffet lunch is reasonably priced at $1. . . . You've heard a lot of raves over the remarkable brunch served on Sundays at the Holiday Inn, South San Francisco, but you should see the action going on in the plush Lancer Lounge these nights. Providing the nightly dance sounds are The MacDonalds, Patty and Mac. This act is a real crowd pleaser.

Script and Commitment

"There is no such thing as an impersonal film. All pictures are reflections of their makers' personality. Even a conscienceless man, given a script, makes a commitment."

It was 37-year-old filmmaker, Bob Rafelson speaking about his recent personal statement, "King of Marvin Gardens," due Friday at the Vogue Theatre. He wrote, produced and directed the film starring Jack Nicholson, Bruce Dern, and Ellen Burstyn and discussed criticisms of the film when it opened recently in New York.

"What I was dealing with as subject matter was relative instability: a tremendous breakdown of communication. I thought about it for a year after making 'Five Easy Pieces' and it seemed to be something in the air."

"People I knew suddenly were experiencing a general feeling of depression. Possibly it was the political climate at the time. But I saw a tremendous disillusionment manifested by divorcees and a rash of assassinations in the country."

"It became a motif in the world. People were flipping out all over, shooting each other for no apparent reason. It became an inescapable feeling I couldn't ignore in my next film."

"Rather than analyze and anticipate it, I had it occur in a film as it does in life, unexpected and irrational. These people might have calmed each other but they didn't and remained out of rhythm with each other."

"I think in terms of rhythmic punctuation. But I purposely didn't want Jack to play the introverted disc jockey brother because we'd done three films together and I felt he was too attractive, too effervescent."

"I saw my life as a saga to the perpetuation of Nicholson and Rafelson. But we're old friends and he demanded to be in it. The same with Ellen. She was the first person I met when I came to Los Angeles and always knew I'd use her in a film. She also insisted in being in it."

Jack Brackman became my friend when he was a New York free lance film critic and after he visited me in Big Sur, we talked over my idea and his thinking so paralleled mine, he ended up helping me write the script."

Although the bright, soft spoken articulate and thought-provoking filmmaker doesn't want it thought "Marvin Gardens" is autobiographical, he did have a "mean and detestable" grandfather as is in the film and he was a disc jockey in Tokyo with the Armed Forces doing long monologues with background music that are still popular in eastern cities."

Of the seven films Rafelson's company has produced only three have been financial successes. The list includes "Head" (a satire on the Monkees), "Easy Rider," "A Safe Place," "Five Easy Pieces," "Drive Hard," "Last Picture Show" and "King of Marvin Gardens."

"I can never follow a pattern or do two movies of a kind. And I doubt I'll ever be able to creatively interpret someone else's work. I haven't a single idea yet for my next picture and I'm not reading anything. But it will come, who knows from where. As long as it comes from deep down inside of me, that's what's important."

That's what is meant by personal films and I'll say right now, "Marvin Gardens" is one of the most provocative films I've ever seen and one I'll want to view several times over. Not because it's "obscure" as some critics have charged, but because I understand its characters and can draw insight into my own foibles through them. It is a movie not easy to forget. None of Rafelson's films are.

New Play Things

A playground of telephone poles sprang out of a mud puddle at Margaret Pauline Brown Elementary School in Daly City.

The many angled structure on which pre-schoolers will climb and swing began to take shape as several parents, neighborhood children, an army of volunteers from the Wilderness School and the school staff toiled in the rain. The construction was directed by John Arns and Alex Forester of Peoples Playground in Berkeley. They specialize in putting together unusual environments for children from low-cost materials.

"We've been working for months to get this built. For the first time in seven years we'll have something exciting for our children to play on," said Betty Popplek, the pre-school director.

The new playground will play an important role in developing children's balance, body control, muscle development and eye-hand coordination, she said.

The finished product will be about 40 feet square, with a platform several feet off the ground that will swing with the youngsters' movements. There will be slides, ladders, rope swings and hand-over-hand pegs, with a soft sand surface underneath.

"Most people don't realize that good physical coordination is a prerequisite to the mastery of many academic as well as physical skills," said Eddy Parrar, the pre-school supervisor. The pre-school attempts to deal with the very special needs of three and four-year-olds by teaching them readiness skills through play, she said.

"The program was chosen for special television coverage last year. It operates with combined state and federal funding, preparing 75 students a year for regular school. Parent participation, at least every other week, is a major factor in the program's success, according to the staff."

Construction of the playground went smoothly under the direction of the People's Playground staff. Using telephone poles donated by PG&E, they put 25 volunteers from the Wilderness School to work hammering, sawing, measuring and operating power tools. Wilderness School students, who spend a semester full-time working on environmental projects and have already built their own house, found building the playground a new experience.

"This is really exciting,"

California:
Travel Delight

During the past month I engaged in my favorite avocation, volunteer politics. This time with the Presidential campaign as Chairman of California's Get Out The Vote Drive. The task took me into 21 counties and gave me an excellent view of what made the election tick. This and subsequent articles will deal with my impressions.

The Presidential election was decided by the very moment George McGovern received the nomination. There were only two issues upon which the contest was determined. These were of approximately equal weight, and neither related to partisan politics nor campaign rhetoric.

The first of these was a repudiation by the American people, irrespective of party or practical politics, of the social revolution. For ten years, editors, plumbers, lawyers, doctors, business men and housewives, in other words, middle America, have been tormented by the "new thing." In their eyes, the "new thing" included pot, tolerance of heavier drugs, commune living, riots on campus, disorder in the streets and permissiveness carried to an absurd extent. The social revolution, of course, embraced far more acceptable things: changes in life style, new ways of dressing, living and thinking, and of accommodation to change. But the general public lives by images, and the "new thing" was unpopular and had to be endured for a full decade.

Fathers sat home puzzled and enraged at some of the antics of their children. Mothers found it impossible to adjust to the new morality.

The "new thing" was not a political movement. It will be recorded historically as a true social revolution, a changing of the living habits of Americans for many years to come. It exasperated the adult generation, which found there was nothing it could do to stem the tide. It had them beaten—they couldn't grow beards and run a counter revolution. It was totally impractical to demonstrate in the streets against the demonstrators, and nothing could change the course of new habit.

The social revolution said Alex Katz, a Wilderness School student, "I don't know what it's going to look like, but little kids are really going to have fun with it. I sure wish they had playgrounds like this when I was a little kid."

emerged on the national political scene on just two occasions. First was the brief elevation of Eugene McCarthy as a national figure, but while he was the instrument which defeated President Lyndon Johnson, he never ran in a general election. The people of the nation never got a whack at him.

George McGovern was the major political product of the social revolution. George McGovern embodied (whether justifiably or not) the "new thing" to millions of Americans. When he succeeded in capturing the nomination, there was, at long last, a representative of the movement who could be defeated. Defeated he was.

The other major issue was equally non partisan politically. It related to the question of management. For all our American love of political fun and games, the average citizen understands that the man who sits in the Oval Room must be able to manage the nation competently. President Nixon had, during his first term of office, evidenced full intellectual and practical grasp of the presidency. His quest for a generation of peace and initiatives on the international scene convinced the people that Richard Nixon was fully able to handle the most difficult job on earth.

The comparison with George McGovern was overwhelming. McGovern possessed few of the skills needed in a major administrative position. Prior to his nomination, McGovern's proposed unrealistic cuts in our armed forces, and had had to remain silent when in a television debate Hubert Humphrey wanted to know the cost of McGovern's thousand dollar per person welfare proposal.

Given this kind of choice, the American people resoundingly voted in favor of the man they knew could do the job, and against the man they were quite convinced could not.

These two issues were so pervading that all other attacks and charges appeared as brush fires. In most elections there are daily variations in polls as the hash and smash of a campaign goes on. This year the polls were straight line—little deviation in measurable support of either of the candidates. A national judgment had been made. The President had won, and Senator McGovern had lost by about the same margin long before the polls were opened on November 7.

Frank LaPierre

Embarrassed, Not Jubilant

INSTEAD OF JUBILATION over the presidential election (we predicted right here in this wonderful column that The President would sweep even South Dakota away from George M.), we felt embarrassed. Only now that the shock has worn off do we fully realize just how soundly the Democratic nominee was battered. All those pledges of support from bigtime Democrats. And the only one to deliver was Ted Kennedy. For our money those folks in Massachusetts were voting for Kennedy, NOT for McGovern. Time will tell.

AND WE THOUGHT supervisorial candidate Herb Rhodes would do better. Another blow to our thin skin came when voters passed the Coastside initiative (Prop. 20). Aside from those two blunders, everything else went as we had predicted October 25.

COUNTY RECORDER Marv Church blamed radio and the telly for slowing down the vote after 5 o'clock. That's when the eager beavers of the communications media blabbed Nixon was sweeping the country, and it was only a matter of hours before Good Old George gave in. To this we say: "Not true!" The truth is Sen. Arlen Specter, our man in Sacramento, sent out a letter on October 30 imploring all us voters to be sure to vote—ON NOVEMBER 8. This ain't Chicago, Senator.

MORE ELECTION coverage follows right after this public service commercial.

Folks, do you all feel run down at the mouth, 'cause you haven't helped a worthy cause all year and Christmas is approaching? Well, friends, Charlotte Garden (756-6434) a pretty, 21-year-old girl who spends her time helping everyone all year long, wants Y-O-U.

Here's what Charlotte and little helpers need, pronto: Wrapping paper of the X-mas kind, along with ribbons and bows; men and women's hair shampoos; deodorants; cologne; body powders; and Christmas tree ornaments. Each year, Charlotte gets together a group to bus up to the Sonoma State Hospital and carol through the wards. They bring these little presents with them. How about some help?

AND THE SHADOW knows a little bit more about this fine group of people! That Jeff El school employee being pressured by you-know-who after she was caught hanging onto your kids' folks' cooking two turkeys on 20 minutes of school time in school ovens using (oh, Gaud help us all) two pinches of salt, served up the birds at a church function. The feast brought in about $412 to be used to buy Christmas presents for those Sonoma State patients.

BY THE WAY—Anyone interested in joining the group busing to the hospital on December 2 at 9 a.m. tell Charlotte. Glad to have you aboard.

AND NOW WE return to the political program in progress: Who will take over the Daly City Council seat of Assemblyman Louis J. Papan: Good question. Glad you asked. Well, one councilman likes Frank Tardelli, another likes Al Teglia, another likes Victor Kyriakis and two others are non-committal.

Outsiders are pushing for a special election. They have high hopes William Schumacher, unsuccessful candidate in two previous elections, will make it. And if some agreement isn't reached within the next two months it just might go to a special election. But remember this: It will not be combined with a Jeff El election in April.

OUTGOING COUNCILMAN Papan may have a lot to say, but he can't vote on his replacement. The city has a lot of excellent choices. Some of the names we've heard kicked around make little sense. Others are good.

RUMOR DEPARTMENT—Lots of quiet surrounding possible sellout of Westlake Foods to Alpha Beta chain. Formal announcement should be forthcoming.

NOW WE KNOW why members of the Lions Clubs always end their self-introductions with "It's great to be a Lion." Got a call last week from old buddy Ray Logan. Ray's been ailing of late and needed help moving around some furniture in his Daly City home. Puts in a call to fellow Lion Dave Gehre and, presto, Gehre and Chuck Lewkowicz are moving furniture. Not only is it great to be a Lion, I would say, it's great to have friends like Logan has. Before he became incapacitated Logan spent every minute of every day helping others. Now his friends have a chance to turn the tables, albeit temporary because Ol' Orner (as I call him) will be back upstaging Mr. Wonderful (that's me) before too long.

BRENTWOOD LODGE is the place, and Big Game Night is the night, for the swinging Westlake Merchants shindig. The Hottest Horn around, Mr. Sal Carson, will be footing his tunes while (gasp, whee, choo, sputter) Sylvia Gaylord, the best thing that's happened to evening goons since Cleopatra, will be warbling. The usual emcee will be Gene Perry. I mean, what can you say about Gene that hasn't already been said. What's that? Sorry, this is a family newspaper.

LASTY, BUT GOODY—Medics at Chope Community Hospital wouldn't accept that "body" dispatched there by a deputy San Mateo County coroner the other a.m. The carcass was found on a Pacifica beach and, after cursory examination by said coroner (Our Source tells) was sent to hospital for autopsy to determine cause of death. Reason the gang at Chope was reluctant to accept the case was that none had ever seen a human with fins before.

That's right: It was the partially decomposed body of ... a seal. (Now let's wait for the phone to ring.)

The Public Voice

Editor, The Post:

If there was a national first prize for civic ugliness, Daly City would win it. If there was a first prize for the most unsophisticated, uninspiring city name, Daly City would win that one too. Followed by Foster City and South San Francisco.

Now "LAFCO" is a commission which is nothing more than a mouthpiece for those who wish to develop (read: overdevelop) San Bruno Mountain—has come up with a hare-brained scheme. They propose that Daly City should incorporate, not only San Bruno Mountain, but also San Mateo County's loveliest looking and smartest named city: Brisbane!

They must be out of their minds if they think that proud Brisbanians will ever relinquish their hard won sovereignty to the Daly Citizens (sounds even more ridiculous). The inside story is that, before that beautiful mountain legally be delisted with those fog-encased, concrete belt slumbrums which are the trademark of Daly City, the land has to be incorporated by some existing city.

But LAFCO doesn't say that. Since Brisbane has preferential rights to that piece of real estate but is inhabited by a large number of "naïve environmentalists" that is the real reason why they now propose that Brisbane should "cease to exist" and be made a part of a sleazy bedroom community whose citizens obviously don't know a mountain from a hole in the ground!

As an inducement they allege that "Brisbane's economic situation would be hopeless and desperate without Daly City." What a preposterous lie! Brisbane has the lowest tax rate in the county, has a several hundred thousand dollar improvement fund and will be one of the richest cities in the U.S. if they alone get the Crocker Industrial Park (part of San Bruno Mountain) incorporated. They need Daly City like they need a hole in their mountain! There is of course one soft spot. Everybody has one. If someone proposed that Brisbane were to incorporate both the mountain and Daly City—with the combined Civic Center to be located in Brisbane, a few diehards might be swayed. Giving Daly City a decent name would not erase its total ugliness. But you have to start somewhere.

Samuel Chandler
Merger Talk
Years Ago

"Merge Daly City and Brisbane!" The thought is not new. It popped up as early as the autumn of 1908. On August 2 of that year, long ago, a petition was published proposing the incorporation of the city of Vista Grande.

Its proposed east-west boundaries stretched across the Peninsula from the bay to the ocean. The northern boundary was the San Francisco city-county line while the proposed southern boundary was, roughly, the northern limits of South San Francisco and the old Burl Burl Rancho. Thus, included were all of the lands in the present day cities and areas known as Daly City, Colma, Brisbane, Bayshore, Broadmoor and all that surrounds them.

IN 1908 the vision of a city covering the whole of northern San Mateo County was beyond the imagination of many residents and did not reckon with the laws that did not apply to rural areas and force upon them taxes for sidewalks and other improvements they felt they did not need.

Among the opponents were many of the residents in the southern portion of the area. These people, for the most part, were gardeners and ranchers who were afraid that a city government would burden them with laws that did not apply to rural areas and force upon them taxes for sidewalks and other improvements they felt they did not need.

Among the opponents was the pioneer of the area, Robert S. Thornton, and many other first settlers. Also opposed were the owners of Crocker Tract and those of the Spring Valley Water Company, Cypress Lawn and Mount Olivet Cemeteries. Nearly all residents and business proprietors in the present day Colma area joined them in their opposition.

HISTORY SHOWS that the opposition to incorporation in 1908 continued to grow until the San Mateo County Supervisors did not schedule a vote.

Thus perished the city of Vista Grande and the dream of one city governing the whole area of northern San Mateo County.

Two years later a number of persons who lived on the west side of San Bruno Mountain and north of South San Francisco proposed incorporation of that smaller area.

In response the residents of the southern part of the area again rose in protest. Finally a committee suggested to a mass meeting that it would be wise to exclude all the territory south of School Street.

THIS CAUSED a debate that grew so fierce the editor of the Colma Record called for harmony and wrote, "The Record is glad for a spirit of fairness, and that there is no desire to force Colma in the matter; that could undoubtedly be done with the large vote up here."

"The time is ripe," he said, "and incorporation is a sure thing, and it is hoped our people will join the harmony wave to better our conditions all along the line."

The editor is long dead, so is his dream of a harmony wave, for the same old fires smolder and still smolder another area-wide incorporation. But maybe not. Maybe the time is ripe, at last.

Land Values Topsy-turvy

New legislation and court findings that relate ecology to land development have created a topsy-turvy world in the field of real estate values, according to speakers at a blue-ribbon seminar on the subject held at College of San Mateo Saturday.

More than 500 appraisers, real estate brokers and others in the related fields gathered for the seminar panel discussion and workshops in an all-day program.

So great is this effect, commented James Kuebelbeck, land economist, that new negative values are possible. He said that in one estimate, under new formulas, a $1,500,000 piece of property, as valued two years ago, was now worth a minus $200.

He explained that this was possible because, to develop the 300-acre site as envisioned two years ago would cost more than the $1.5 million before one got into breaking ground.

Win Westfall, president of V.T.N. Corp., explained that today the developer has to go through an involved legal procedure with city commissions and planning groups, and told of the growing costs of fees, engineering costs, environmental studies, taxes, and other factors. He told of one project that had had three planning commission hearings and now had been sent back to the planning commission again for environmental impact study.

Westfall said that nobody knows what is going to happen as a result of the passage of the Coastal Initiative, which will create governmental control of all coastal area development.

He said that a Pillar Point project, a fishing village, which had been under study and preparation for eighteen months, and had been approved by the San Mateo County Planning Department, was now shut down.

Westfall said that another similar situation existed with a 700-acre hillside property, which had had two years of engineering planning and was properly zoned.

There are many other Bay Area projects similarly affected, he said.

Kuebelbeck declared that for the economist and the appraiser, this new legislation is the worst thing that has happened since Karl Marx.

"Recent laws are leading us to a managed economy," he said. "It is a subject neither legislators nor politicians like to talk about."

In the past, he said, fair market value consisted of getting the buyer and seller together. Today, "land value is determined by the buyer, the seller, a willing City Club, a willing Committee for Green Foothills, a willing city attorney, a willing development commission, water control board, BCDC and so on."

Historically, he said, "we have found it very difficult to determine what social costs actually are. It is difficult to weigh the value of water for human consumption against the loss of gravel for salmon, and both are important."

"We just don't have the technology to take intangibles and relate them to tangibles," he declared. "Meanwhile, we are in a revolution in the field of values."

Kuebelbeck said the State Legislature assumes such a technology does exist, when it doesn't.

Political and social values now are replacing the price theory, he said. For his part, he added, he did not believe that the Supreme Court should "determine everything."

"I don't believe the legal profession has any more capacity than the engineer to determine philosophical judgments," he said.

Maynard Murger, real estate broker and former president of the Sierra Club, said that today, one must take a more sensitive approach to real estate values.

He noted that the question is one of raising people rather than crops, and he pointed out that in Daly City, one of the finest artichoke and truck garden areas is now a "hopping center."

There are people who put a court case, and that in the future, the question would not be regulation on land use, but how much.

Attorney Steven P. Steinhart, associated with the Bay Project, said that the daily use of police power for regulating land use is now solidly established.

'Rent Watch' Program Could Be Born

By LORENE BEASLEY

A "rent watch" plan to protect the elderly 28 million beneficiaries from unfair or unjustified rent increases that might result from the Social Security increase of 20 per cent has been announced by the Cost of Living Council.

The key elements of the program are: An Internal Revenue Service "rent sweep" audit of older persons' housing; expedited rent complaint services for Social Security recipients; and new Internal Revenue Service authority to administer sanctions and levy financial penalties on violators.

The "rent sweep" will concentrate on apartment buildings which house high percentages of older persons on Social Security. The IRS estimates that over 50,000 rental units will be involved in this investigation.

A RENT WATCH program is in force as of October 2 in over 300 local IRS offices across the nation to expedite rent inquiries and complaints submitted by a Social Security beneficiary. The handling of walk-in and telephone calls, as well as mail inquiries, will be given top priority. Follow-up investigation in cases involving possible landlord violations will be given quick action.

It is hoped that this special handling of the complaints of the elderly will encourage them to exercise their rights, minimize their fears and put landlords on warning that their rental units are being watched.

The IRS has been granted for the first time new administrative sanction powers. This gives the IRS authority to administer sanctions and allocate penalties to landlords who have illegally overcharged rents. Landlords in violation of stabilization program rent regulations can be ordered to restore overpayments to tenants, roll back rents to legal limits and pay a penalty of an amount double an overcharged rent.

SOME RENT increases are permissible if they are consistent

School Fire In Millbrae

A "long, smouldering fire" damaged Taylor Intermediate School's offices in Millbrae Saturday, causing an estimated $10,000 loss.

Fire Inspector Edward Williams said the blaze seemed to have started near a wall furnace in a cloakroom next to the school nursing station. It spread into a hallway, but did not get to the classroom area.

Inspector Williams said there was some damage to school records.

CONFUSING CONSEQUENCES

Warriors Halt Cougar Bid

By JERRY LITTELL
Post Correspondent

Barring major upsets even Criswell would find difficult to predict the Peninsula League football race seems destined for a post-season playoff to decide which team goes on to the first-ever Central Coast Section playoffs in three weeks.

That tie situation reared its interesting head Friday night after defending league champion South San Francisco knocked off previously undefeated Half Moon Bay in convincing fashion, 28-6. That win, coupled with Terra Nova's 30-6 win over Serramonte and Westmoor's 26-14 victory over El Camino, left all three teams, T.N., H.M.B. and Westmoor, in a tie for first place with one week to go.

The three-way tie will almost certainly be trimmed to two ways as Westmoor plays Terra Nova next week. The Cougars, with a win over Serramonte in the final a strong possibility, will then have to replay either Westmoor or T.N. teams they have beaten already this year.

South City's stifling defense nullified the Cougar passing attack and the shock treatment HMB received early from the Warrior offense left them reeling the entire evening, weak punt. South City took over on the 29 and halfback Mason LeBlanc ran the first play over for a touchdown. The Cougars never could come back.

John McKeon ran down the left sidelines the next series on a 48-yard scoring jaunt for SSF to make it 14-0. The rains poured from that point on, reducing most of the game to a slick shamble. The Cougars made just four first downs and only scored when versatile Bob Hunt ran 80 yards with a punt return in the third period.

But a one-yard plunge by Dave Isham and a halfback option pass from McKeon to Greg Williams in the final period doubled the Warrior points and ended HMB's hopes of an undefeated season.

To add insult to injury the HMB team broke down several blocks from Clifford Field before the game and the Cougars had to walk down El Camino Real fully uniformed to get to the game on time.

Westmoor's John Hart and Nick LeBlanc made minicome of the El Camino defensive line as Westmoor patiently climbed back into a first-place tie. Hart crunched his way to 75 yards as he conducted a personal vendetta against the left side of the Camino defense. LeBlanc scored three touchdowns and ran up 108 yards including a 32-yard scoring burst to open the day's activities for the Rams.

The Rams surprised the Colts with an old offense — the single wing. Basically a running-type offense, the Rams used that formation to its greatest advantage. The Westmoor coaches called just four passes all day and even that was three too many. The first one went from soph quarterback Harold Day to LeBlanc for 27 yards and the next three fell incomplete.

Westmoor's defense, which has thrown up five shutouts this year, got a moral victory despite losing 14 points — it held Camino's rushing game to a minus four yards.

Terra Nova's Louis Sanchez had one of those impossible quarters against the Regents' last night in Pacifica. The senior halfback broke loose for 197 yards rushing — 158 of those coming in the third period alone.

One of those runs was a 55-yarder that put the game out of Serramonte's reach. The Regents had taken an early 6-0 lead on Steve Biagini's 18-yard run but quarterback John Salomon directed the Tigers to five consecutive touchdowns. Two by fullback Joe Raccanelli, to insure the win.

Jefferson's Greg King scored three times on runs of 67, 3 and 12 yards as the Indians got on the win column over Oceano, 20-6. King's 67-yarder came just 27 seconds before the first half ended and broke a scoreless tie to that point. Jefferson dominated play after intermission running 39 plays to just four for the Sharks. King ended with 175 yards in 22 carries.

LIGHTWEIGHT CAGE

Cats, Rams Win Titles

Westmoor High's Corey Brice sank two free throws in a one-and-one situation with only two seconds left in the game to give the Rams the D division North County Lightweight Basketball championship Saturday night.

The C and D games played at Skyline JC in San Bruno were between the champions of the North Peninsula and Mid-Peninsula leagues.

Price's free throws assured a 38-30 Westmoor win over Mills in the D's, and in a superb performance earlier San Mateo defeated Westmoor in the C Division, 46-36.

In the D game, the Rams had half throughout the entire first half, but the gutsy Vikings came back to lead 23-22 on a free throw by Joe Guasari with 4:00 left in the third stanza. Going into the last period, Mills still was ahead, 29-28.

The Vikings continued on top until only 2:00 remained in the contest, when a field goal by Skip Caucini put the Rams back on top with a lead they never relinquished. After the two charity throws by Price, Mills threw a full-court pass but wasn't able to get a shot off.

Jose Balagot got 10 tallies, all on outside shots, as did Price, to lead Westmoor. Center Ara Sarakian had 12 and Guasari had 10 for Mills.

The San Mateo victory was never in doubt as the Bearcats went out to a 19-0 lead and an eventual 12-2 first period advantage. From that point on San Mateo almost scored at will, coach Jim Snider had a chance to substitute freely.

The new excellent system used to figure what kind of play was eligible in the MPL this season may have had something to do with the San Mateo win. But it was fairly obvious that the Cats had five smooth plays until 2:00 remained in the contest.

Balanced scoring was the Cats' attribute. Their two guards, Tony Mendoza and Kiyoshi Takahara, combined for 22 points with Mendoza hitting for 13. Forwards Barney Malpas and Mickey Sickie both chipped in with eight. Ted Scott and Rich Dela Cruz had 10 each for Westmoor.

Dublin Crash Film Showing On Lamaze Is Scheduled

Kills Mateo Housewife

A San Mateo woman was one of four persons killed and her husband was seriously injured Monday in a head-on accident on Interstate 580 near Dublin in Alameda County.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Mrs. Glendon Wilson, 54, 1321 Second Avenue, died at Valley Memorial Hospital in Livermore where she was taken after the 2:40 p.m. accident.

Her husband, Roy Wilson, 59, was reported in satisfactory condition at the same hospital this morning where he is being treated for a fractured ankle and ribs.

The Highway Patrol said the Wilson station wagon was struck head-on by a pickup truck driven by John L. Simons, Jr., 21, of Manteca. Simons was killed in the mishap along with his stepdaughter, Kim Olson, 2, and his wife, Teresa Ann Simons, 34. Simons' pickup truck reportedly went out of control, crossed the highway and collided with the Wilson vehicle, according to the Highway Patrol.

Burglars Use Van

The DeWitt Construction Co. of 155 South Hill Road, Brisbane, was burglarized for the second time within a month. Brisbane police reported today. Taken were two large welding machines, numerous tools and a .38-caliber pistol.

Burglars evidently drove a pickup truck inside the building to carry away the loot.

The public is invited to a film showing on the Lamaze Method of Childbirth December 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the Episcopal Church of Transfiguration, parish hall, 29th and Alameda, San Mateo.

Another film showing is scheduled for January 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the South San Francisco public library, 800 West Orange Ave., South San Francisco. The Lamaze technique is a form of prepared childbirth in which both husband and wife participate. Through instruction, the expectant couple learns breathing and relaxation techniques which help the wife cope with her labor and delivery. The husband is her coach.

The film showing is sponsored by the American Society for Prophylaxis in Obstetrics. For further information contact Mrs. Joanne Stern, 345-7877; Mrs. Kathy Peterson, 592-5887, or Mrs. Teresa Fulmer, 348-0123.

TENDERNESS and joy used to be something you read or heard about. But now the feeling is yours. You know it because you're freer than you've ever been. Beautifully unselfconscious. And you're happy. Sharing. Caring. Leading a life of romantic days and nights filled with mystery, excitement and promise. Planning a sun-drenched honeymoon of sandy beaches and blue seas and sky. Granat Brothers, jewelers, at Tanforan Park, suggest you highlight it with the magnificence of a diamond. To symbolize the beginning of a lasting triangle as old as mankind. Boy. Girl. Love. Because this time it happened to you.

Something Is New at Motherhood

In mid-October, maternity-fashion shoppers will find something new at their local Motherhood Maternity Shop. The company has developed a line of natural beauty care for the special needs of the almost-mother.

Since many changes do occur during pregnancy, the Motherhood Beauty products are designed to enhance the good ones, minimize the not-so-good. As Robert Bardavid, company president, says:

"Pregnancy is a very pretty time for a woman. It is our intention, with our new cosmetics, as it is with our fashions, to make sure that it is."

The line, made of natural ingredients, consists of a Strawberry Facial Cleansing Wash, Citrus Tanning Lotion, Avocado Moisturizer, Apricot Shampoo, Wheat Scrub with Honey and the company's famous "Angelen" stretch mark lotion. All items are from Lexis, Ltd., the Motherhood manufacturing division.

"With the addition of other-than-fashion items in our shops, we hope to enable the expectant mother to do all of her special shopping at Motherhood Maternity," Bardavid says.
